

MOZART'S CAFE

Evelyn O. Shih

Sitting on the plane, I flipped through the airline magazine and came to an advertisement for Mozart's Cafe. The name attracted me to read further. It turned out that the cafe is located in the city where I was going, Winnipeg !

In Winnipeg, I stayed with Rosaline and her family. Rosaline was also a Mozart fan, so I showed her the ad and her family decided to take me there for dinner some evening.

We found the place. It had quite an antique atmosphere but when we sat down, we found out the music was not by Mozart. At first, Rosaline and I murmured to each other about this and later, when the music was changed every time, we yelled out just like two contestants in a game show: "It's Beethoven's Fifth Symphony!" "It's Handel's Largo!" The manager started to stare at us. He might wonder where these two troublemakers came from. We wondered too, why didn't he buy a Mozart's cassette or just change his cafe's name ?

This is not an unique case. Once I saw a church bulletin, not using Bible verse for invocation, but some famous man's saying about peace and love etc. The pastor naturally didn't preach about the Bible either. He talked about current events and quoted some passages from Reader's Digest. He mentioned everything except the Bible.

As for Christmas celebration, it went even farther. People have parties of drinking and dancing toward fighting and even killing. They shop crazily for presents and cause hatred, jealousy and breaking up in the family later on. They celebrated Santa instead of Baby Jesus.

Most people don't think those things are absurd, because they don't know which is right and which is wrong. They just follow traditions and social habits. They are cheated without knowing it. How Sad !

Dear friends, I hope you will read the Bible and decide for yourselves what is the most becoming way to celebrate the birth of Christ.
